

exo² Products

When Anne went down the Bob Run in St Moritz, exo² kindly provided her with a heated gilet which was very effective. They now have a new range of heated garments. Over Christmas Fiona and Anne tried out a few of their new items namely the heated jacket, the neck warmer and back warmer.

HeatBand (Heated Neck Warmer)

When Anne first put this on it felt rather bulky around her neck due to the Velcro fastening, but after wearing it for a short time she got used to it (even wearing it in bed) and enjoyed the heat. It is ideal if you have problems with neck pain but also your body feels warmer when your neck is warm. The miniature power pack and charger heat the neck warmer for up to 6 hours per session. While in use the power pack fits elegantly into a small pocket on the side of the neck warmer.

HeatWave Heated Back Support (Heated Back Warmer)

The back warmer has a portable battery pack and the Velcro means that it fastens easily around the waist. This allows the back warmer to provide heat to the lower back area. After having it on a few minutes Anne and Fiona could really feel the heat. There are struts inside for lumbar support. They both thought it was excellent and would certainly recommend it to others.

StormWalker Heated Jacket

This jacket has a heating element in the lower back and both front pockets and the power pack fits snugly into one of the pockets. You can unzip the sleeves if preferred.

The jacket really made a huge difference when going out (Anne wore it indoors as well!). The heat generated feels really warm and cozy. Anne said that she could happily wear it all day every day! Personally she would like it to be slightly longer but as it is reasonably lightweight and not bulky, it is fine to wear under a coat. The other advantage is that the switch on the power pack can be turned on and off as required. The heated panel located at the lower back/kidney area, is designed to attain a temperature of approximately 43°C, lasting for up to 3 hours on a single charge, or several days when used for quick 'boosts' of warmth. The heated panel technology is so versatile and robust it can even be hand washed! All the items have batteries which are mains rechargeable and easy to use. If you would like to speak to Anne or Fiona about these garments please call the Association on 01270 872776. The following was sent to us by a member who purchased the sleeveless jacket:

“Just to let you know what a great product the exo 2 jacket is! I have Raynaud's and wear it all day between December and March (even when indoors!), and get it out for chilly days. It has greatly reduced my symptoms. I would go as far as saying that this has changed my life”. Nikki Adams exo² is offering a 25% discount to our members on any purchase they make via their web-shop on www.exo2.co.uk or alternatively you can send a check made out to their parent company, Typhoon International Ltd. The discount code, which needs to be included in the comments section during website purchase or on the letter accompanying any checks, is RA2509.